

Period _____
Name _____
Date _____

Study Jams: The Water Cycle

Precipitation is another word for _____. Like snow, _____, or _____.

The water cycle is the endless path that _____ takes from the _____ to the _____ and back again.

Animals and plants draw in _____ from the soil and to keep _____.

Water disappearing into the air is called _____.

When water is heated by the sun, it turns from a _____ into an invisible _____ called water _____.

Plants sweating is called _____ - it's when air is lost through plant leaves.

Remember, what comes down must go up!

The water vapor gas rises in the air and as it does, it _____ down. That makes the _____ turn back into droplets of _____ and they form _____. It's called _____.

Summary

Evaporation occurs when water _____ and turns into water _____.

Condensation occurs when water vapor _____ and turns back into water _____.

Precipitation (_____, snow, _____, and _____) falls from the _____ down to Earth.

Question: How can we tell that water vapor is still in the air?